MEMORANDUM FOR COMMAND INSPECTORS GENERAL

SUBJECT: Revision of Army Regulation 1-201, Army Inspection Policy

1. The time has come to revise the regulation that defines and guides the conduct of inspections throughout the U.S. Army -- Army Regulation 1-201. We must ensure that this regulation fully supports the needs of our commanders, the rigors of our current operational environment, and the readiness of our wartime Army. The current version of the regulation is dated 12 January 2004 and has fallen out of date with such recent changes as the realignment of our Army's senior headquarters.
2. The Commandant of The Inspector General School is the proponent for the revision of Army Regulation 1-201. He will distribute a memorandum to all DAIG division chiefs and Army Command, Army Service Component Command, and Direct Reporting Unit Inspectors General outlining the revision timeline, input formats, and staffing process. I need your help in providing substantive input while facilitating an in-depth review of the regulation at all echelons within your respective commands. Your contribution to this effort is essential.
3. Do not hesitate to offer your thoughts and advice about what changes should appear in the regulation. Your input will assist in deciding what is best for Army inspection policy while ensuring that it meets the needs of the current operational environment and the Global War on Terror.
4. The point of contact for this review is Mr. Stephen M. Rusiecki, Dean of Academics, U.S. Army Inspector General School, at (703) 805-3918 / DSN 655-3918.
